NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

DURHAM PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The trustees of the Durham Public Library submit the following annual report for the year ending Feb. 15, 1901.

During the year two hundred and five books and volumes of magazines have been presented to the library, eight books have been purchased by the Durham Library Association, and two hundred and twenty purchased with the town appropriation, making the total number of books now in the library six thousand nine hundred thirty, (not including pamphlets), an increase during the year of four hundred thirty-three books. Sixty-nine miscellaneous pamphlets have been presented during the current year. The average circulation is about two hundred books per week.

The reading table has been supplied with twelve magazines per week.

Two hundred and twenty-five dollars are required for books for the ensuing year. (This is a fixed sum as per contract).

The sum of fifty-two dollars and fifty cents will be needed to renew a fire insurance policy which expires Nov. 1, 1901. The sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars will probably be sufficient to pay all miscellaneous expenses, including reinsurance, for the coming year.

During the past year the Durham Public Library has been called to mourn the loss of its most liberal benefactor, Mr. Hamilton Smith, whose memory will be perpetated and familiar to the future generations of our town. His generous legacy "of ten thousand dollars to be expended toward the erection of a building for a public library in the town of Durham, New Hampshire" will afford us a noble edifice which will stand as a memorial of his desire to improve the educational advantages of all our citizens.

Your attention is called to the list of donors, to whom we gratefully acknowledge our appreciation.

The library has been managed with economy, and we are fortunate in retaining the valuable services of the present librarian at a nominal salary, which each year is returned three fold in generous donations of books.

Respectfully submitted, by order of the board.

LUCIEN THOMPSON,

Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF EDUCATION

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 1, 1901.

To call your attention to a few facts regarding school work for the past year the board of education address the following:

We desire to thank those who have taken such an active interest in decorating our school-rooms. The members of the Woman's club have presented during the past year to the school a beautiful framed picture of Washington. The pictures that were presented by Mrs. Morse, one year ago, have been suitably framed, partly by subscriptions from the scholars and the rest from the school money. The children of the Village Primary have been saving "Revere" coffee tags for a long time, and with them have been able to secure a beautiful bas-relief of Paul Revere. All good pictures in the school-room are educational, and we hope the good work will go on. We have made a new and very pleasing addition to our school works this year, and that is in having our scholars taught drawing by a thoroughly competent and enthusiastic teacher, Miss Eva E. Bunker. The work with the older classes will doubtless prove more satisfactory when such classes have received the elementary training of several previous years, but we feel that the work of Miss Bunker with the children of all ages is to be highly commended for the earnest effort on the part of teacher and scholars. Parents and friends are invited to examine the work in this line as the papers are always ready for inspection.

In accordance with the vote of the district authorizing the board, if they deemed it expedient, to join with other towns in procuring a superintendent of schools, an arrangement was made with the school boards of Alton and Newmarket which resulted in the selection of Mr. George H. Whitcher of Durham as such superintendent, one-half of his salary being paid by the state, one fifth by the town of Alton, one-fifth by Newmarket and the remaining one-tenth by Durham. Before his application for this office Mr. Whitcher resigned from the Durham school board and Mr. C. H. Pettee was elected by the board to serve for the balance of the year.

Your school board are unanimous in the belief that the grading of the schools, accompanied as it has been by a careful supervision for nearly two years, has proved of great advantage to the large majority of our scholars and has added to the efficiency of our teachers. We have been unusually successful in securing in all our schools a high grade of teaching ability. The result of faithful teaching, strengthened by careful supervision, is manifest in successful schools.

The school at the Mast Road has been closed during the winter term because of the small number of scholars in the district. The number of weeks of school has been increased to thirty-six, thus putting our schools on a par, in this respect, with those of Dover. In accordance with the vote of the district raising money for high school tuitions, your committee have made contracts as required by law in such cases, with the school boards of Dover and Newmarket and with the trustees of Robinson Seminary at Exeter, and have paid said boards tuitions for twenty-one different scholars from Durham. These students represent all sections of our town, only four being from the village. Our aim has been that our schools shall be of a high standing. Although we have found it impossible to please every one we have tried to do what would lead to the best results for both parents and scholars.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board:

Gentlemen:—In presenting my annual report for the year ending Feb 21st, 1901, I am obliged to divide the year into two parts; the first part, from Feb 15th, 1900. to Aug. 1st, 1900, being the period under the old condition, when as a member of the school board I acted as superintendent of schools, or as a committee having the course of study and its introduction into actual use especially in charge. For this work, of course, I could receive no compensation.

During this part of the year the work in hand was chiefly that of perfecting the plans of the previous year, both in adapting the course of study to the schools and in organizing the schools needs of the to make the best use of the course of study.

Some changes were made in the text books. The geographies which had been use for six years or more were changed; a new series of readers was added to the ones already in use, thus giving the scholars the use of the two acknowledged leading series, and for the eighth grade a new Grammar was bought, one more in accord with the present tendency in grammar teaching. These changes involved some expense, but when we remember that the old books in use were so far worn that at least two-thirds of them must have been replaced, the extra expense involved in securing up-to-date desirable books has been very slight, probably not more than twenty-five to thirty dollars at the outside, while the advantages resulting from the use of these better books have several times repaid this slight increase of expense.

There is but one change which I would now recommend, and that the completion of the grammar series for all of the grades, and as the old grammars are almost unfit for use from wear and tear it will practically cost no more to equip the schools with the more desirable series than to replace the worn out books of the present series.

The second part of my report covers the time from Aug. 1st, 1900, to Feb. 21st, 1901.

On the former date, having previously tendered my resignation as a member of the school board, I was chosen superintendent of the district of Alton, Durham and Newmarket, under the law of 1899. By the terms of the joint board the superintendent was to devote one fifth of his time to the schools of Durham. This I have done as nearly as the conditions would permit. During this time I have made sixty-six visits in the schools, and have spent the time not thus engaged in preparation of test examination papers, in correcting and comparing the results of examinations, and in keeping the various records upon which promotions and graduatons will depend.

With your consent I have assisted the Superintendent of Public Instruction at five Teachers' Institutes, and have spent three days on official work for the State Teachers' Association, and have visited some of the best schools in Boston, Portsmouth and Exeter.

The school work in Durham was so far outlined that the matter of organization was of slight account; practically every school was ready to take up the work Sept. 5th without change, because for two years the present plan has been essentially in operation.

No changes of any account have been made in the course of study other than changes in and additions to text books.

It is gratifying to observe that some of our best city schools are now adopting the very things which were made an essential part of our course of study from two to four years ago. Our eight year course, though it was somewhat criticised is right. It gives time enough for the average scholar to fit for high school.

The early introduction of algebra, (in the seventh year) though questioned at the time, has proven a complete success. One step in the mathematical course not yet taken ought to follow, namely, the study of geometry in the eighth year. The introduction of algebra and geometry do not add to the length or burden of the course, in fact they lighten the load on the scholar by introducing new and interesting subjects. Instead of spending twenty-five per cent. of the entire school time for six years on arithmetic the scholar spends but fifteen per cent. or less on arithmetic, three per cent. on algebra and two per cent. on geometry. The result will unquestionably be greater knowledge of arithmetic with less expenditure of time and with greatly increased satisfaction to scholars.

President Eliot says: "With all his mathematical powers strengthened by the study of algebra and geometry, and with all the practice of arithmetic which his study of mensuration and algebra has involved, the boy returns at seventeen to arithmetic and finds it infinitely easier than he did at fourteen."

In history I would invite your attention to the early introduction of historical reading as a preparation for the study of history that comes later.

In grammar, too, we are making progress in substituting a considerable amount of written work for the usual recitation work, but as yet the results are far from satisfactory but this year is working well only seemingly the results are too long delayed. At present I am concentrating my efforts on English and grammar, and hope by the end of the spring term to be able to point to substantial and marked progress.

In one line of work it must be admitted we are yet sadly deficient. I refer to nature study. The chief difficulty is that as yet competent authors have not given us text-books based upon a rational foundation. There are scores of books, but for the most part they present no orderly method of study, but are fragmentary, aimless and practically useless, following no recognized educational law, and in many cases are of the namby-pamby, boyish species that are worse than useless in the school-room. It is too bad that boys and girls should grow to manhood and womanhood amidst a countless multitude of living things suited to nature study seeing but little and knowing far less of the wonders that develop under nature's laws in field and forest, by wayside and hedge, and a knowledge of which is in itself an education.

Teachers should aim to open the eyes as well as the brains.

The introduction of drawing as part of the regular course of study is a step in the right direction. The work thus far is creditable. Of course it must be remembered that our scholars have had no previous training, but in spite of this good work is being done and I hope an exhibit of the drawings from all of the schools may be a feature of the closing exercises next term.

In closing I must call your attention to the unsatisfactory sanitary arrangements at the village schoolhouse; a condition which it seems to me ought not to exist much longer; and at the same time that this is being considered I should advise a consideration of the question of dividing the basement into separate spaces for boys and girls as a means of solving certain problems that arise concerning the noon intermission.

The course of study herewith revised and reprinted shows at a glance the essential features of the work. On this basis the Durham schools are winning very favorable opinions from leading educators in this section of New Hampshire, but there is much to be improved both in plan and execution, and the same spirit of encouragement which has characterized the utterances of practically all of our citizens will, if continued, as I have no doubt it will be, enable you, as a board, to bring about all the changes desirable.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. H. WHITCHER,
Superintendent of Schools.

Report of Truant Officer.

The duties of the truant officer have not been arduous, but they have been unpleasant in some instances.

In all but one case warning has been sufficient to remedy the existing conditions.

By direction of the school board I found it necessary to proceed against one habitual offender. A sentence was secured which was entered and suspended subject to enforcement at any time. The result was highly beneficial, and with the precedent thus established a few other enforcements would, in my opinion, completely cure this evil habit.

I have made no charge for my services in this department for there has not been much to do. I have rendered an account of my expenses, which were also light.

With the new truancy regulations now or soon to be law, I think there need be little trouble from this source.

Respectfully submitted,

G. H. Whitcher,

Truant Officer.
